Plunder To Remember For Your Western Adventure Vacation

NECESSARY PLUNDER:

- _____ Heeled riding boots without cleats (not big-toed, cleated hiking boots)
- _____ Riding (not bicycle) helmet. Bring your own for sanitary and safety reasons.
- _____ Head-to-toe rain gear (Wal-Mart pant & jacket rain suits, not ponchos)
- _____ Wide-brimmed hat for protection from intense sun or rain
- _____ Sun screen & chap stick (lip balm) with sun protection
- _____ Sun glasses (with UVA and UVB protection)
- _____ Long sleeved shirts to protect against the sun
- _____ Gloves to protect against the sun and for chores
- _____ Wind breaker or warm, lined jacket
- _____ Sweater, sweatshirt, or fleece
- _____ Sleeping bag and pad
- _____ Pillow
- _____ Toiletries including a towel, wash cloth & baby wipes
- _____ Plastic bag for dirty clothes or wet towels
- _____ Any medications you require
- _____ Flashlight and batteries
- _____ Camera
- _____ Swimsuit
- _____ Walking shoes and slippers for in the Lodge
- _____ Mosquito repellent
- _____ Scarf or bandanna (for protection from the sun)

In addition to jeans, long-sleeved shirts, bedding (sleeping bag, pillow) and toiletries, “necessary plunder” are any items that you cannot gamble on leaving behind. The weather in Wyoming varies. Riders may experience extremes of heat, cold, wind, rain and snow, all in one day (if you are lucky!). Think layers!
